

A TRANSITORY WISH

I wish that I might fill my arms with peace,
The kind that broods in forests, dense and gray,
To use like sweet incense within my home,
When noise and mad confusion mar the day.

Alice Whitson Norton

From: The Improvement Era
Vol. 43, No. 8, Pg. 476
August, 1940