

TWILIGHT

In silver gown the evening comes,
 With noiseless steps o'er field and hill,
And lo! We find when she has gone,
 A host of shadows lingering still.

By Alice Whitson Norton

From Holland's Magazine of the South
May, 1936 – Vol. 55, No. 5, page 25