

CONTENTMENT

A rose beside a cabin door,
A sunbeam on the spotless floor;
Yet few there were who, passing, saw
A rose, a sunbeam, nothing more.

By Beth Slater Whitson

From: Singing Wires: A Book of Poems – Page 24
Bruce Humphries Publishing – Boston
Copyright 1958 – LOC Catalog No. 58-6821