

THE TOILERS

The ploughman turns the brown earth from this shares,
To song of bird, and smell of springtime bloom;
Only the whirr of shuttles fills the ears
Of him who stands a keeper at the loom.

By Beth Slater Whitson

From: Sunset Magazine
Vol. 20, No. 5, Pg. 454
March, 1908