

TRANSITION

I gathered roses yesteryear
Beneath a sky of cloudless blue;
Today, beneath a sky of gray,
My trembling hands are filled with rue.

By Beth Slater Whitson

From: Ainslee's Magazine
Vol. 18, No. 4, Pg. 70
November, 1906

AND

From: Singing Wires: A Book of Poems – Page 10
Bruce Humphries Publishing – Boston
Copyright 1958 – LOC Catalog No. 58-6821